

PRESS RELEASE

For Immediate Release – Montreal. November 11, 2008. XMT Liquidations Inc. (“XMT”), the court-appointed liquidator of 6356095 Canada Inc. (formerly known as Excapsa Software Inc., “Excapsa”), today announced that Excapsa had completed a settlement with Blast Off Limited (“Blast Off”), the owner of the Ultimatebet online gaming sites. Pursuant to the settlement, which was approved by the holders of more than two-thirds of Excapsa’s outstanding shares and by the Ontario courts, Excapsa paid US $15 million to Blast Off in return for a full and final release of all claims relating to the allegations of cheating on the Ultimatebet websites. In addition, Excapsa acquired an ownership interest in all gaming software owned by Blast Off and its subsidiaries.

Mr. Sheldon Krakower, the President of XMT, said: “Our primary goal throughout these negotiations was to restart payments under Blast Off’s promissory note and avoid lengthy and costly litigation. The settlement accomplished this objective. Excapsa is a company in liquidation, so our focus is on maximizing recoveries for its shareholders. We are hopeful that the gaming software will provide opportunities to generate further value for Excapsa’s shareholders.”

Mr. Krakower went on to say: “Our investigations have confirmed that the tool which enabled the cheating on the Ultimatebet sites was inserted before Excapsa purchased the software code from a third party in 2005. We do not believe that the directors or officers of Excapsa had any knowledge of the tool and, importantly, there was absolutely no admission of liability or wrongdoing pursuant to the settlement. We are currently evaluating options for recovery of the costs and damages incurred by Excapsa in connection with the settlement including, possibly, pursuing legal action against the perpetrators of the cheating and prior owners of the software code.”
